INTERNATIONAL PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION REPORT

International application No.
PCT/US03/35526

V. Reasoned statement under Rule 66.2(a)(ii) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. STATEMENT

Novelty (N)	Claims 19	YES
	Claims 1-18 and 20-26	NO
Inventive Step (IS)	Claims NONE	YES
	Claims 1-26	NO
Industrial Applicability (IA)	Claims 1-26	YES
	Claims NONE	NO

2. CITATIONS AND EXPLANATIONS

Claims 1-18 and 20-26 lack novelty under PCT Article 33(2) as being anticipated by EP 1203766. The reference teaches compounds and compositions that are useful in pharmaceutical therapeutic applications, see the structural formula (I) in page 3 and the corresponding examples.

Claims 1-26 lack an inventive step under PCT Article 33(3) as being obvious over EP 1203766. The reference teaches compounds of formula I, and the corresponding compositions comprising one or more active ingredients. The compounds are disclosed to be useful as pharmaceutical therapeutic agents in the treatment of diseases such as atherosclerosis, rheumatoid arthritis, etc., see page 44. The instant claims differ by having a second therapeutic compound, which according to the disclosure is a known pharmaceutical therapeutic agent for treating an inflammatory disease, etc. One having ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to combine the reference disclosed compounds with other known therapeutic compounds with the reasonable expectation that the combination would have the same properties and therefore, the same use as taught for the individual ingredients.

Claims 19 meets the criteria of novelty set out in PCT Article 33(2), because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest the instantly recited second therapeutic compounds, see EP 1203766.

Claims 1-26 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(4), because the compounds are disclosed to be useful as herbicidal agents, and thus meet the criteria of industrial applicability because the subject matter claimed can be made or used in industry.
